- Needed a brand that was complete, cohesive, memorable, and more than just a logo
- Needed a brand that would enhance his coaching prowess and land him more clients
- Wanted to steer his brand in the right direction after facing constant and consistent disappointment
- Needed to “let go” of the reins and let experts guide the overall direction of his brand

OUTCOME:

- “A year ago, I wasn’t speaking to people about coaching. Now, I have this brand that people remember and compliment me on.”
- “I now have things I can drop into presentations for cohesiveness.”

CURTIS' STORY

Curtis Rivers' story proves that it's never too late to discover your true calling. Growing up in low income housing in England, he was a quiet, introspective kid who spent most of his time at the library. However, when he played with other kids, he became highly competitive and even daring in a desperate attempt to fit in. At the age of eleven, he declared that he would become a stuntman, which resulted in a wave of skeptical laughter. He promptly wrote to television stations, asking what it would take to be a stuntman. A little over a decade later, that's exactly what he became.

What followed was an extraordinarily successful career as a Hollywood stuntman, where he triumphed over fear and conquered hundreds of challenges in film and television. His credits comprise two Guinness world records, and appearances in over 200 films and TV shows, including the iconic James Bond series. Despite decades of success, however, there was one big problem with this grandiose life. It wasn't Curtis at all. He realized that the bold path he had chosen as a child did not align at all with the spiritual and harmonious man he had become. So, in 2012, he set out on a journey to reimagine, realign, and reignite his path. And that's when the transformation began From Stuntman to Soul Guide.

Today, Curtis is a coach, speaker, and award winning author who shares his unique strategies for an authentic awakening. He guides accomplished, heart-centered professionals through the same signature steps he discovered during his own journey. He focuses primarily on helping business owners who have lost their identity or direction and are seeking their own purpose, position, and path to freedom. He's a certified NLP & EFT Practitioner, Holistic Life Coach, and is also trained in Soul Transformational Therapy & Coaching. His books include Seven Paths To Freedom and The Fearless Path (first place winner of the 2018 Mind, Body, and Spirit International Publisher Awards). His path is proof that, regardless of your situation or station right now, your soul is the compass that guides you toward your destiny.
